UNEASY lies the head that wears a crown. The Hoch Shimbus says that the Emperor of Japan is feeling very anxious at the display of the Joi feeling in words and actions of late by the people.
His Majesty often refers to the matter of the Rev. Mr. Large at Asabu, and makes enquiries of the Superintendent General of Police whether the murderers have been discovered.

EITHER the French authorities exaggerate, or the journals of Tonquin are very modest. This is the way the Independence Tonkinoise puts a little tragedy—Inspector Riou and the Quanan (presumably a sort of mandarin) of Hong Kong succeeding in surrounding the village of the Hill. His Majesty often refers to the matter of the Rev. Mr. Large at Asabu, and makes
whether the murderers have been discovered.

COLONEL BOB INGERSOLL has a great many conundrums put to him in the shape of questions about his religious beliefs. Recently he was stopped on the street by a tall, cadaverous-looking individual, who said in a deep, sepulchral voice: "Colonel Ingersoll, do you believe in a hereafter—a future life beyond this world?" "I don't know," replied the distinguished orator. "It is a greater mystery how I came into the world than my living again in another. Now that I am started, I may go on indefinitely."

H.I.H. the Casewitch lately instructed the Russian Minister to present the sum of 2,000,000 to the police, in remuneration for their trouble in guarding his various routes in Japan.
He also sent 500,000 and 200,000 towards the funds of the Tokyo Orphan Asylum and the Japanese authorities have dispatched a number of photographers of Tokyo to the north-eastern provinces to take photographs of various celebrated places, which were to have been visited by the Russian Crown Prince, with the intention of presenting copies to him.

in Australia—Victoria, £10,000; New South Wales, £7,000; South Australia, £5,000; Queensland, £3,000; West Australia, £2,000; Tasmania, £1,000; New Zealand, £1,000; Extras, including salaries of aid-de-camp, private secretaries, special trains, maintenance of Government houses and grounds, gas, and in some provinces, coals, interest on capital, &c., say, £30,000; total, £68,000. This is still especially if it is remembered that the salary of the President of the United States, the head of over 70 millions of people, is only £10,000, but we would gladly take the chair as a special favor to the people, on half the sum.

At the Magistrate's day Chang Ngan and Chang Tang were charged on remand (N) with being in possession of opium without a permit and assaulting police officers in the execution of their duty (S) with assault. The evidence of Yu Pak Shan, excise officer, showed that on the 22nd inst. in the afternoon he went on board a junk used by contractor for carrying stone.
The first defendant was smoking opium. Witness said he came to search for opium, and showed his badge. The second defendant threw overboard a pot of opium, and then the first said there was no opium on board. The second then induced a number of men to attack the officer. A man named Sang Yok Shan came alongside in a boat and urged the crowd to beat the officer and throw him overboard, saying it did not matter if he killed him, as he (Yok Shan) was a coolie. He also said to the officer "You cannot arrest me, if you want to do so you must go to the Governor and get him to sign a paper." Mr. Robinson for the defence sought to establish that the Excise Officer had tried to arrest the defendants, which was beyond his power, and they were quite justified in resisting.
Excise officers could seize opium, but had no power of arrest, and it was perfectly lawful to resist by every means. The case was adjourned for a week.

IN India a novel application of electricity has recently been made in elephant-catching. At a recent capture of about forty of these animals near the last of their wanderly bodies had passed the entrance into the kheddah, the signal for barring their exit was given instantaneously and without a word spoken, by means of an electric wire.

THE Yip affirms that, in connection with the recent riot in China, it was finally determined to send Japanese men-of-war for the protection of Japanese property in Shanghai, and that, acting on this resolve, the Yamato Maru, under the command of Captain Morokawa, was despatched on the 14th instant. It was expected that she would be followed by two or three other vessels.

ONE of the latest inventions in connection with the electric lights is a silent cab. Several clubs and hotels in London have already been supplied with this useful commodity. Two lamps are suspended outside the building, one red and the other green, and by pressing a knob in the entrance hall one or other of the lamps can be lit at will. The red light calls a four wheeler, and the green a hansom.

THE Customs Revenue cruiser Ling-fong,

H.M.S. Pigmy and the Ling-fong will be ample protection to the community in case of danger, affairs are as quiet as usual again.

THE schoolmaster abroad. At a recent N.S.W. political meeting a gentleman who advocates the disposal of the dead by cremation asked the candidate: "Do you favour the establishment of a crematorium?" The candidate looked bewildered, but presently replied, his face glowing with sudden enlightenment: "Of course I do. In a country like this so admirably fitted for the purpose, one cannot but favour the establishment of better-factories."

THERE are undoubtedly, says a writer in Scribner for April, many men and women in New York to-day who went down to the Battery and cheered and waved their hands in greeting to the first steamship that entered this port from Europe. This important event took place on April 23, 1891, and it was doubly interesting and significant because not only the first transatlantic day, but the second also; steam travel across the sea thus beginning with a race that was earnestly contested and brilliantly won. Furthermore, it was a race that attracted infinitely more attention than any of the contests that have succeeded it. Two steam vessels had crossed the Atlantic in previous years, both having started from this side; the Savannah from Savannah in 1819, and the Royal William from Quebec in 1831, but neither of these vessels had demonstrated the feasibility of abandoning the slow sailing packets and clippers for steamers when it came to a long voyage. The Savannah used both steam and sail during eighteen of the twenty-five days required for a passage to Liverpool, and more than one clipper overtook and passed her during the voyage. The Royal William had to utilise all its hold for coal in order to carry sufficient fuel to insure a completion of the voyage. Public interest was deeply stirred on both sides of the ocean when, in 1837, it was learned that two steam vessels were on the stocks, building for the American service. These were the Stirling at London and the Great Western at Bristol. It was these vessels that made the first race; the Stirling making the trip, measured from Queenstown, in eighteen and a half days and the Great Western in fourteen and a half days. The Stirling, having had nearly four days' start, came in a few hours ahead of the winner. She carried seven passengers, but whether the Great Western had others than her crew on board cannot now be ascertained.

M. PLANTÉ's new process of engraving on glass and crystal by electricity is found capable of producing results of marvellous delicacy. The plate to be engraved is covered with a concentrated solution of nitrate of potash and put in the design being traced out with a fine platinum point connected to the other pole.

It is stated that a "noble" English lord recently gave a boxing-show in his drawing-room at which many ladies were present. She supposes several not unknown to "fame." They were divided into three pairs. Each wore rubber-sole boots to prevent slipping on the polished floor. The boxing was of a business-like character, and blood was drawn in every bout. The noble ladies, however, showed not the least squeamish-ness, and applauded enthusiastically, clapping their gloved hands, and rapping chairs with their fans. Three separate fights were brought off, and the whole affair was voted a great success, worthy of repetition.

AMONG other contemplated changes in the China Squadron, we learn that H.M.S. Pigmy has been ordered to the Cape of Good Hope station. It is reported by a Yokohama contemporary that H.M.S. Pallas and Phoebe will shortly join this station. They are of the smaller class of second class cruisers, of the same type as those recently built for the Australian service, with protective decks from one inch to two inches thick. They are of 3,575 tons and of 7,500 horse-power, steaming from 10 to 10½ knots. They carry eight 4.7 in. and eight 3-pdr. quick-firing guns, besides machine guns, &c., and have a crew of about 100 men. The Stirling has been ordered to return to Chatham to be paid off. She will be replaced by her sister ship the Merrivale.

SUPREME COURT.

IN SUMMARY JURISDICTION.

(Before Mr. E. J. Achroyd, Acting Chief Justice.)

FRASER-SMITH v. SASSOON.

In this suit, which is an action for damages on account of insanitary drains, Mr. Holmes on behalf of plaintiff again applied for an adjournment. He had filed affidavits in support of the application, and now repeated his request for an adjournment for ten weeks.

His Lordship said he had not seen the affidavits.

Mr. Hastings said that they were entirely insufficient. There was one affidavit from Dr. Canlie saying that Mr. Fraser-Smith was advised by him early this year to get away for two months holiday. That was all.
There was no statement that he was suffering from any illness, or compelled to leave the Colony. There was another affidavit by Mr.
Maclean saying that he expected him to return in ten weeks. But there was no affidavit that he was suffering from any disease. The proper course would have been for plaintiff to apply for examination de bene esse, and not to go away and leave his solicitor to ask for an adjournment for ten weeks. He submitted that a most improper course had been pursued, and the case ought to be withdrawn, leave being given to plaintiff to bring a fresh action if ever he returned to the Colony.

His Lordship thought Dr. Canlie's affidavit unsatisfactory.
Mr. Holmes admitted that it was not as strong as he would have liked, but it showed that he was obliged to go away, and the other affidavit said that at the time of his departure he was not well.

Mr. Hastings said it was very inconvenient to the defendant and might be prejudicial to his interests to have this case hanging over him.

Mr. Holmes submitted that it would be merely a matter of costs.

Mr. Hastings urged that the proper course would have been to take the affidavit de bene esse, and he could have done that at any time. Not having done so, he must accept the inevitable and this case must be dismissed, with liberty to bring a fresh action—Archebold on Affidavits.
He ventured to say there was no precedent whatever that could be quoted in which a case had been adjourned ten weeks on account of the absence of the plaintiff, who went away the day before the trial was to come on. The proper course was well known.

His Lordship observed that there was no affidavit stating that plaintiff was a material witness.

Mr. Holmes submitted that a plaintiff must be a material witness.
His Lordship—Oh no, he might not.
Mr. Holmes contended that if there had been an application for postponement in the case of an ordinary witness leaving the colony, the remarks about affidavits de bene esse would apply, but the plaintiff's presence was more important, and defendant would not be injured by delay.

His Lordship—We do not know that.
Mr. Hastings urged that his client would be injured by having the case hanging over him.
His Lordship did not see that he would be any better off if the case were dismissed with leave to bring a fresh suit. It would still be hanging over him.

Mr. Hastings said that very likely no more would be heard of it.

His Lordship could not adopt that view. There was however a section about dismissing a case for want of prosecution.
Mr. Hastings thought that as the case had been set down for trial and plaintiff did not appear he should be dismissed.

After some further discussion his lordship said he would make an order next Friday, as in the meantime he wanted to look through the papers in the case.

"JULIUS CÆSAR" AT THE THEATRE ROYAL.

The first public appearance of Mr. Minn after his lengthy sojourn in Shanghai and Japan was signalled by the attendance at the City Hall last night of the most enthusiastic, albeit somewhat chummed-up, audience that we have known him play to. The reason is obvious.
On the first appearance of this excellent company of artists in Hongkong their established reputation as high as it was well merited, and it is small wonder that, in a community generally credited with possessing excellent tastes in matters histrionic, Mr. Minn and his talented Shakespearean company should meet with a fitting reception. Their welcome was hearty, and we are but expressing the opinions of the educated section of the public when we say that Mr. Minn richly merits all the support that can be extended to him, for passing over the clasp of his undoubted talents, a manager who has the enterprise to cater to the tastes of isolated communities such as ours—and that too on the elaborate scale that Mr. Minn has done—is worthy alike of praise and patronage, and on the grounds that merit rarely falls to score, we venture to predict that the stay of the Company here will be both pleasant and profitable. In the choice of "Julius Cæsar" for the opening night the management exercised a wise discretion. The play itself is a most magnificent one, to which are attached a many aids and stage accessories that when it is put on in the style that Mr. Minn invariably adheres to, even as a spectacular display it is a sight worth witnessing. As Marc Antony, Mr. Minn was superb, and delivered his burning lines in a manner that evidenced talents of the very highest order alike in his immediate histrionic work and in the succession of dramatic pictures that he presented. And taking the cue from their leader the individual members of the company strove to excel themselves, and with scarcely any exception undoubtedly succeeded. Mr. Wakefield was cast for Cæsar, but is far too young for the part, and although well made up could scarcely lay the flattering unction to his soul that he represented the man who was regarded as the probable father of Brutus. This young gentleman, however, worked like a Trojan, and gave promise of one day being a first-class actor. Hard study, Mr. Wakefield, and the goal is within measurable reach. Mr. Montgomery, as Brutus was admirable, and displayed qualities of a
